

Dualism and the One World Order - author Damodar Bernhard Goller

In the past few texts I've written a lot about the shift in consciousness toward a new humanity and towards a new earth.

This is seen from the current state, a very big change dar.

A whole planet in its healing process occurs again in the divine order, which was previously lost. The earth is reborn as it were in harmony with the Divine Being.

Such a dramatic change has consequences for every single creature on the planet and also to laws that were previously seemingly irrefutable.

Already today we recognize the increasingly frequent crises in the social and economic sphere, the radical political changes in the Middle East and the emancipation of the developing world and much more, a development pressure out of the confines of the current time in a more open society.

The dualism - the separation of spiritual and material world

In the past, this Earth a place of darkness, ie a place that was not in keeping with the harmony of the cosmos.

Human society, since we know the story was constantly embroiled in wars against each other, people were enslaved and subjugated, colonized land forcibly.

A few powerful it was always possible to impose their will by force of a broad mass of people, even if this is not useful for the majority, and often not even intended.

The nature of the human race was reckless, excessively and unsustainably exploited for the fulfillment of all personal consumption desires and repressed.

All this could happen, because Mother Earth, the planet Earth consciousness above permitted this.

The prevailing disharmony created in human consciousness, hence the idea of dualism, the separation of spiritual and material world, should be as detailed below.

The planet earth has a body similar to the human body

The earth as we humans, their own awareness of their own.

A planet is like a human body at large. He has single cells and organs.

People, animals, plants, and also things you can say look at the body's cells as "Earth".

The earth is sick, the current state

And a human body he is sick, when the mind is in harmony with the principle of life, is also a planetary system "sick" when it gets out of his inner balance.

It is caused by the incorrect posture awareness in an atmosphere that fosters a pathological behavior of individual cells.

Single cells that are actually detrimental to the overall system, through the resonant air support for disease in their growth and promoted.

It can be similar as for us people who come into regular cancer sores, which can at the expense of healthy cells, so other people, plants and animals grow and thrive.

This analogy describes more or less what is happening on our planet the last few millennia. Since people are the "crown of creation" on Earth, they also reflect the most disharmony of the total Earth system.

The human history of the last thousand years is a succession of wars and exploitation of humans, animals and the earth as a whole. Expansion at the expense of the host, "earth" without regard for other living beings and no principle of sustainability. One can say that humanity was the "cancer" of Planet Earth, as well as expanding a cancer without regard for losses ...

All this was easily possible as the earth itself is in disharmony, an existence out of harmony with the divine unity was. The earth produced by a fast response to illness and suffering, which was matched by the degeneration of humanity as the most important cells of the planet.

The dualism - the perceived dichotomy in the human

Living in a planetary system that is in the disease state, is not easy for the individual cells. Especially because so superior to the entire cosmos is indeed still largely in harmony with the Divine.

The cell or as an individual person feels so in his deeper inside but exactly what is right and what is good while on earth, his home, can ever triumph in darkness, because the parent planetary system itself is in disharmony, and thus the harming themselves and for promoting strong negative forces.

This creates a conflict within man between experienced reality on the ground and felt his heart's desire, the "desired state" in accordance with the divine spirit.

Seen from a bird's-eye view, is the larger part of humanity on earth in harmony with the life and the smaller part is focused on the harmony of life.

Over time, the individual person learns that the world of his dreams here in the great, ie on the whole of humanity and the planet as a whole, scale is simply not possible.

Now splits a part of the people in those that are based on the parent planet earth and those who adhere to the truth communicated through the inner voice of the divine spirit.

The latter have a sick planet system in a difficult position, since the forces of the people and the planet are now working against them often.

Those who consider themselves to Planet Earth in the disease state, fall into the same disharmony, as the earth, and thus from the consciousness of unity with the Divine Being.

The spiritual path in dualism

In the past, the path of good is often the path of renunciation of the world.

Those people who stuck to their vision of their heart, despite all the negative tendencies of the planetary consciousness, which often sought isolation from the other, secular people and lived as an outsider and monks on the edge of society.

By and large it was in fact even enlightened masters in the past is not possible, a change in the world for the better product that is a global world structure in the energy of love to build.

The favorable environment for the darkness and the desire of the planet, "sick" was to be just too strong to allow for just such a change on a large scale.

The path to enlightenment, therefore, often had a "negative trend" towards the gross material earth, because you better than light man renounced the world. They searched through meditation and exercises to shift to life on a purely intellectual level, or to realize in small communities living in love and light, the large scale on this earth was not possible.

After enlightenment, it is said by some spiritual masters of the past, very often a person dies within the next few days, because the need was no longer possible to be residents of this world.

Some few who could escape the illusion of darkness remained, however, always returned as a champion living on the earth, to others who were trapped, also helping to light. They are referred to as a Bodhisattva in Buddhism.

Sun escaped over time a luminous soul after another from the "Satan" dominated earth planet.

The Way of the Cross - the path to enlightenment in the old paradigm

At the human level, however, the spiritual path was often associated with this endless pain, as though our soul is inextricably interwoven with the divine spirit was forever, but our human body is a cell of Planet Earth.

The spiritual part of ourselves tended to harmony with the cosmos, the physical part of us to union with the "fallen planet Earth." An unbearable contradiction and only people with the strongest will power were thus able to endure the hardships that brought with it the spiritual path.

Since the lower level of the divine spirit of our shared reality is, this is always superior to the planetary level. In the fallen world, so it was often needs to dominate the body, the feminine principle, with the help of the spirit, the male principle, in order to achieve unity with the divine life high.

That is dualism, the ancient spiritual world order, which had to renounce the investigated person in the world, drop the request can be had of wanting to be an integral part of this world, if he did not want to lose in the fallen state of mother earth.

This mental attitude we find even in many schools and spiritual masters of old.

The mind is dominated by the matter, which is also symbolic of a correlation to the earth is still prevailing patriarchy, and the old paradigm of the hierarchical pyramid in which the general will "of the High Low", or in the short or are dominated by many .

The one-world order, the new earth

Healing the Earth

As I have already hinted at the beginning, is the planet Earth is currently in a larger process of transformation back to the divine principle of harmony, of oneness with the Spirit of God.

This process can also be referred to as the "recovery" of the sick planet Earth. As we all know, a recovery from a serious illness takes on our people and quite often his time. Just as the life span of the earth is many times greater than those observed in humans, is also the duration of severe disease and the duration of the recovery process from a human perspective, often very long. What may be only a moment for the Earth can, for us humans to feel like a very long period.

All healing, whether from Mother Earth, or those experienced by a single person, begins with the decision to become healthy. This decision we make on a spiritual or emotional level, even before the recovery process in the body comes into the aisles.

Changes through the healing process of the Earth

As far as I perceive it, has Mother Earth for this Heilwerdungsprozess already decided and the intellectual climate that has been created to sickness a favorable atmosphere swings, now to a climate that is more and more the powers of healing, harmony and love promotes.

This change currently perceive many spiritual and sensitive people, and it is referred to as "the ascension process" of Mother Earth.

The rebirth of the earth in harmony with the divine spirit has many implications for individuals and for all life on the planet in general.

Everything changes, especially the rules and laws that have hitherto been regarded seemingly unshakable.

The challenge now is the time to recognize the change and to trust him, against all the opposing his intellectual knowledge, which represents only the negative experiences of the past.

Mother Earth will no longer support the forces in their actions that have harmed the planet and the creatures on it. The era of the reign of darkness that ruled the earth like a cancer and is hollowed out to end the term and a new era of balance to make room.

Concepts that have on the exploitation of the planet or life on the planet gefußt work, getting worse and worse, the more the planet as a whole, and recovered to recover.

The Humane Society of the New Earth

The shift in consciousness toward life and healing on a planetary level takes on a human level, its counterpart in the re-alignment of the people to love as the highest principle and the resurrection of the human soul toward the light after long darkness.

The new paradigm is the spiritual man. A life that aligns itself again to the divine order, which manifests itself as love and wisdom in our lives.

At the level of individuals, we focus again on the truth of the moment rather than on the pre-position and untruth. At the societal level, we focus again on harmony, balance and justice, rather than on exploitation and disunity.

The Earth is now available for the person striving for light and enlightenment people back a permanent home, a place where we like to take part.

The old way of de-renunciation of the world as a negative principle ends with the resurgence of Mother Earth, enlightened way to Earth. The old way is not only no longer necessary, but now even become negative as a positive one, love facing the world, does not reject.

Now it applies to this part of the world-to-business and a divine creation cocreate instead to turn away from that event.

In the new energy it is on the self-centered greed and destruction-oriented people are more difficult to displace innocent people and exploit them.

This brings more and more the respondent by many current lack of justice in the world.

With the healing of the planet is the healing process of humanity go hand in hand.

It is now less and less established a new resonance for the negatives.

Everything changes. If today people often enjoy those the most attention, enrich themselves selfish and organize their lives as a giant ego trip, then tomorrow perhaps those people experience wonder, do the most for the welfare and spiritual growth of humanity as a whole.

If the recovery process will be completed, this will manifest healing for us as a people's long-awaited "paradise on earth". Until then, however, quite some time, maybe even a few centuries pass away.

Summary and Conclusion

The planet Earth is in a transition period towards a higher level of evolution. Because we are human body cells of the earth in a sense, we are similarly affected by this change.

The change can be equated with the beginning of the recovery process of the earth after a long illness. This change lasts until his final likely to be much longer than the life of an average person.

Our mind knows only been living in a world dominated by darkness.

Our affiliated with the reality of God's heart, however, perceive that change takes place in a positive way. This change will change the face of the planet, especially the change that is human society, he goes in the direction of our deepest and most idealistic heart desires from a life of love and lightness with Being.

Since the recovery process of the planet affects us as child unit, we also run by one individual and collective transformation process that will prepare us to live in the ever becoming healthier planet Earth.

Without this transformation on the physical and mental level, we are not in a new earth "fully functional" live or continue in an old mode which was adapted to the medical condition of the earth.

The contradiction between the stored knowledge from the past from the mind and the new present that senses our hearts, must be overcome in order to live in harmony with the new time.

Therefore, the great challenge of the current term quality is to believe in the change towards a new humanity, and this change is to give in themselves.
